Biography

Roger Nakad was awarded a Master's degree in pure mathematics from the Lebanese University and the University of Paul Verlaine, Metz, France. In 2011, he earned his doctorate in mathematical sciences from the University of Henri Poincaré, Nancy, France, and then he held a postdoctoral position at the Max Planck Institute for Mathematics in Bonn, Germany. His mathematical interests lie in the field of Differential Geometry and mainly in Spinorial Geometry. He joined the Department of Mathematics and Statistics, FNAS, at Notre Dame University-Louaizé in fall 2012. He has been invited to lecture in France, Germany, Poland, Romania, Greece, Mexico, Luxembourg, Portugal, Italy, and United Arab Emirates among other places. He was also invited to the University of Mexico, the University of Leipzig in Germany; the University of Regensburg in Germany; the CIRM in France, the CIRM in Italy and the University of Paris-Est in France, to work jointly on many research projects. In 2013-2014, he received the "Berlin Einstein Fellowship" for 6 months: he joined the differential geometry group of Professor Christian Baer (University of Potsdam, Germany) in summer 2013 and summer 2014. Dr. Nakad served as the Department of Mathematics and Statistics chairperson at NDU from 2019 to 2023. As of Fall 2023, he is the Interim Dean of the Faculty of Natural and Applied Sciences.
